MORINVILLE NEWS

MORINVILLE.—An Edmonton couple, Mr. and Mrs. Worsfold and their small daughter were injured early Tuesday morning in a car-truck crash on the highway six miles north of Morinville. Dr. Beresult attended the injured, and a Smith's ambulance brought them to the Royal Alexandra hospital. The extent of their injuries was not yet determined at the time of going to press.

Another highway crash occurred Oct. 7 near Morinville claiming the life of Mr. Herman Vollmer of Volmer and injuring Mr. Glen, an employee of the Bear Oil Co.

The Bluebird Cafe has had a brand new coat of white paint.

The Rosary Crusade which was held in Edmonton last Sunday was represented to the utmost by our Morinville people. The Rosary campaign has started this week and we hope that everyone will answer the appeal. "The Family That Prays Together—Stays Together."

We are expecting to announce the opening of our new bakery in the very near future.

Mr. and Mrs. Quinn and family have taken up residence in Morinville.

Mrs. Rose Martel spent a few days visiting friends in Red Deer last week.

Our main street is improving fast and it will not be long before it will be completed, making our town of Morinville a northern beauty spot.

Three New School Vans

VIMY.—Three modern school vans began operations this year. Mr. Henry Bernard and Marcel Bontard both travelled to Windsor, Ont., for new 48-passenger Fargo buses. Mr. Philip Pagnan had a 36-passenger van body installed on his Ford truck in Edmonton. The necessity of a third van was brought about by the addition of Island Lake school to Dunbrabin public school this year.

All three buses contain the best of equipment including very comfortable leather-upholstered cushions and a good air-conditioning and heating system.

Street Lights Installed

VIMY.—Street lights were installed on the main streets of this town late last week by the Calgary Power Co. The town, under the Morinville municipal government, got a further "face-lifting" with the installation of five street lights. Brightening of the town's streets was warmly welcomed by residents.

Feed Mill Has High Record

ST. ALBERT.—In a special contest between Northern Alberta operators of Canada Packers' "Shur-Gain" Feed Mills, Bert Sumner places third in preliminary lists. This is a remarkable achievement for a new enterprise that has been in business for only a few months.

"Bert" Sumner is a regular advertiser in the St. Albert Gazette, however, and as "it pays to advertise" this may be part of the answer to Mr. Sumner's good

Sgt. Paul Camillo and his bride, the former Miss Louise Marie Jeanne Baert, who exchanged vows in a recent ceremony in St. Joachim's Church. They left on a trip to Chicago, and will later make their home in Edmonton. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arsene Baert of Legal and the groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Camillo of Woodbourne, Pa.—Photo by Goertz Studios.

Miss Madeleine Houle Married Oct. 10

MORINVILLE.—In St. Jean the Baptiste Church in Morinville, Miss Madeleine Houle exchanged marriage vows with Mr. Roger Roi. M.onsieur Tessier united the couple in marriage. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isidore Houle of Morinville and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Roi of Edmonton.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white slipper satin which ended in a train. Her sleeves tapered to lily points and she wore net mittens. Her veil was of illusion net which fell from a coronet of pearls. She carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses. A triple strand of pearls, gift of his mother, was her only jewelry.

Miss Francoise Chalfoux and Miss Verna Patri were her attendants. Miss Chalfoux wore a gown of pale blue net with matching coronet. Miss Patri wore a similar dress and coronet in pale pink.

Mr. Arnold Teed and Mr. Tuck Graham were best men.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Houle chose a steel grey crepe afternoon dress with black accessories and corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Roi, mother of the bridegroom, was in a black satin stroped afternoon frock and also wore a corsage of pink carnations.

Following the ceremony a dinner was held at the Trocadero in Edmonton. A buffet supper was held at the bride's home in the evening. A dance followed in the Morinville community hall where the happy couple were presented with a $200 purse.

The newlyweds will make their home in Devon where Mr. Roi is employed by the Imperial Oil Co.

VIMY NEWS

VIMY.—Mr. Walter Parent was taken to the hospital in Westlock following a cerebral hemorrhage last week. Mr. Parent is partly paralyzed through one side of the body and his condition is still serious.

Mr. Lucien St. Armand of Falher stopped for a day's visit at his mother's and Mrs. A. Fortier's this week while on a business trip.

Miss Germaine Duseault and Cecile Laplante returned from Olds last week-end. They took a close second in the food judging competitions against 10 other Alberta teams. They therefore have the privilege of attending Club Week at Olds or Vermilion next summer.

New Warehouse and Repair Shop

ST. ALBERT.—W. J. Veness is having additions made to his service station here. A new warehouse for Imperial Oil products and a service repair shop are included in expansion plans.

Gaston Bourgeois is working regularly at the service station.

Cafe Opened On Tuesday

VIMY.—The Vimy Cafe was reopened on Tuesday by Mr. Charles Gee. After being closed for over a year the cafe reopened to the pleasure of many who love passing away the time with a cup of coffee during the cool autumn days or the chilly winter nights.

To Hold First Annual Ratepayers' Meeting

SANGUDO.—Plans are being made for holding the first annual ratepayers meeting for the Lac Ste. Anne School Division on Friday, Oct. 28 commencing at 10:30 a.m. in the Community hall in Sangudo.

Visiting speakers are being arranged for, including representatives of the Department of Education and the Alberta School Trustees Association.

It is hoped to make the program as interesting and varied as possible, and will include a fine film dealing with educational matters. A general picture of divisional financing will be presented, as well as a talk on educational objectives.

Ample time will be allowed for questions and general discussion, and special arrangements are being made to provide luncheons during the non hour at moderate prices.

Expresses Vote Of Thanks

SANGUDO.—The Sangudo branch, No. 123 of the Canadian Legion wishes to express a very sincere vote of thanks to all those who helped to make the tag day for the Canadian National Institute for the Blind, held on Saturday, Oct. 1, so successful.

Also we wish to express our appreciation to the following Sangudo girls who were instrumental in helping put over this tag day: Louise Thibert, Donna McKeen, Harriet Male, and Daphne Ovans.

The girls topped last year's figure of $55.00 by collecting $61.17 for this worthy cause.

Loses Home In Fire

SANGUDO.—Disaster struck at the home of Art Voloshinsky. His home burned down to the ground and the children escaped from an upstairs window. They were unable to save anything.

The Red Cross, on being notified, sent out a large box of clothing and bedding. Also some of the neighbors have helped out.

Mr. Voloshinsky is fixing up a granary where they can live until such time as he can build a new house. Anyone who might have any excess furniture which they do not need, or pots and pans and dishes could give same to Mr. Voloshinsky and it would be greatly appreciated.

SANGUDO NEWS

SANGUDO.—The Elks held their regular meeting on the fourth Tuesday of September. This took the form of a social gathering. Please note correction. The Elks held their meetings on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month. Not the first Tuesday as reported recently.

Donna McKeen celebrated her birthday on Sept. 27. It took the form of a supper and pyjama party. Those present were Lois Kerr, Harriet Male, Louise Thibert, Grace Eichhorn and Maur-een Peacock.

Mrs. Linnell and son Morris arrived in Sangudo to take up residence here. Mr. Linnell is the new accountant in the Imperial Bank.

A number of Sangudo residents attended the boxing matches at Mayerthorpe last Tuesday night.

Taking advantage of the fine weather, a number of Sangudo ladies motored out to the home of Mrs. Randleman on Tuesday afternoon. They were Mrs. Kerr, Mrs. Skinner, Mrs. Winwood, Mrs. Goode and Mrs. Perrin.

The bank inspectors spent the past week visiting their branch here.

Mrs. Kober and Marilyn were week-end visitors in Edmonton.

Grace Gilchrist entertained a group of friends at a winner's roast on the occasion of her birthday. Sister-in-law Jean was in charge of the gang who all report a grand time. Those attending were Donna McKeen, Olive Hansen, Daphne Ovans, Ruth Carboneau, Grace Eichhorn, Lois Kerr, Maur-een Peacock, Vivian Grey, Doris Holmes and Harriet Male.

Excerpts From a Report From the Poultry Industry Committee of Ontario

1. Eggs have not a very high Calory rating (do hens know this)

2. Eggs are not normally regarded as a source of fat in the diet (thank Heavens)

3. Eggs are definitely not a carbohydrate food, advertising them as such is improper (we wouldn't dream of doing so)

4. Eggs are not a good source of calcium (take a pill)

5. Eggs are not a good source of naicine (whats naicine)

6. Eggs do not contain Vitamin 'C'. (eat Carrots)

Personally I still like eggs for my breakfast. And if you do your shopping at 'MORTONS, SANGUDO', you can buy the rest of the ingredients that go to make a really good breakfast.

WE REGRET...

That up to the time of going to press this week we were still short of a great deal of local news.

We hope to publish all missing news of this week — together with next week's news—in the next issue of the paper.

PUBLICITY

A fact which is not well known is that Russell Patterson, the illustrator, is a Canadian.

His parents lived in Ottawa. In fact, the last time I saw Russell was when his father died and he came to Ottawa for the funeral.

FANTASTIC SCHEME

Patterson and I cooked up about as fantastic a scheme as any screwball public relations man in the U.S.A. has put over. I still think it might have worked if one of the principals in the drama had not been inconsiderate enough to get arrested for embezzlement.

At that time Patterson was doing considerable stage designing; he had an interest in a Broadway show; he had a friend who had the agency for a passenger aircraft; and he was seeking some name to describe the modern girl which would capture the public fancy as "flapper" had. All these combined to make the plot, which was this: Gladys Glad (subsequently the wife of the late Mark Hellinger) was to "disappear". Actually she was to be flown to Ottawa. As she was a member of the cast of Patterson's show, he thought he could get her to co-operate, as she was a good sport and liked a bit of publicity to boot.

The name of the new girl was to be "the glad girl," typifying The Glad Age. It was also to be the name of the aircraft.

This would publicize Patterson, his show, his friend's aircraft agency, and would give me several good stories. Not forgetting the gorgeous Miss Glad, of course, who was not adverse to headlines.

Unfortunately the aviator had found playing around with aeroplanes a bit expensive, and used government money to pay the bills. That ended the episode.

Patterson, one of the handsomest men I have ever seen, has dropped out of the public eye considerably since he allowed his correspondence school of illustrating to peter out. His reason, he told me, was that some of his students could draw better than he could, and he found their competition becoming progressively more embarrassing!

HORMONE AND CANCER

This man's name I don't even remember. At the time he was the head of the Curie Institute, Paris. And after I had asked him a particular question, he was the most indignantly angry man I have ever interviewed.

The story really started when the Brookings Institute developed the plant hormone. A Dr. Manske of the Canadian National Research Council had contributed heavily in the chemical research.

Remembering H. G. Wells' "Food of the Gods," in which a substance was developed which permitted unlimited growth, leading to a superman, and learning of the phenomenal growth which plant hormones stimulated, I questioned Dr. Manske about possibilities of the human hormone.

He said the human hormone had been synthetically prepared but when injected into humans it usually created cancer or gallstones.

This raised the question in my layman's mind whether it was possible that hormones IN the body itself that hormones IN the body for cancer. (Neither the reasoning nor the theory were quite as simple as that, but it will do for the purpose of explanation.)

The Curie Institute had been conducting extensive experiments on the effect of radium on cancer and when I asked my Paris doctor friend the influence of the hormone on cancer he accused me of breaking into his room and wanted to call the hotel manager to have me arrested!

He was the only person in the world who knew the effect of hormones on cancer; so I must have looked at his papers.

Gradually I got him cooled off and the story came out.

He had been invited to give an address before a joint meeting of

Named Farm
Superintendent

James Glen Davidson, who has been assistant superintendent of the Dominion Experimental Farm at Indian Head, Sask., has been appointed Superintendent of that Farm, the Department of Agriculture has announced.

Native of Glasgow, Scotland, Mr. Davidson was formerly with the Saskatchewan Department of Education and instructor in field husbandry with the University of Saskatchewan. Assistant superintendent of the Indian Head Farm since 1928, he is a member of the Agricultural Institute of Canada and the Saskatchewan Institute of Agrologists.

The American and Canadian Medical Associations, and the whole subject was a carefully guarded secret until his paper was delivered. After I told him, in detail, how I began thinking along those lines independently, he was mollified to the extent of at least allowing me to depart a free man.

ANTICLIMAX

Naturally I looked forward to his paper with considerable interest. It was rather anticlimactic. After going through a manuscript unusually replete with technical terms, even for a scientist, and a number of times giving up hope of understanding it, I finally came to the conclusion that he was willing to pass a finger of suspicion at the female hormone but had to give the male hormone a clean bill of health. (Men have female as well as male hormones and women, male as well as female.)

Considerable more experiment, he said, would have to be carried out before definite conclusions could be reached.

I understand that just recently research has turned its attention once again to the influence of the hormone as a cause of cancer.

Farm Gives Advice On Wintering Bees

Beekeepers may over-winter their strong colonies of bees either outside or in a cellar, reports the Dominion Experimental Farm at Brandon, Manitoba. Some kind of protection, besides a shelterbelt of trees or slatted fence, is generally given to bees when they are wintered out-of-doors. The colonies—packed singly, in pairs or in groups of four—may be wrapped with tar paper alone. Tent and tar paper, or placed on specially constructed cases having approximately eight inches of insulating material between the hive and the outer case. The insulating material may consist of cut straw, dry leaves, sawdust or planer shavings.

Honeybees may be stored in specially constructed bee-cellars, in dug-outs, or in home basements—depending upon the number of colonies involved. Both methods of wintering honeybees require the knowledge of several well established principles. The principles involved have been published by the Dominion Department of Agriculture and may be secured free of charge by writing the nearest Dominion Experimental Farm or Station.

All fishermen and hunters are cautioned by Red Cross Water Safety Instructors to keep their boots unlaced when in boats or canoes so that in the case of emergency they may be quickly removed.

Delicious Dessert

Ever try a grape chiffon pie? It even sounds good. It's one of the new ideas out of the Consumer Section of the Department of Agriculture. Others include home-made grape juice and grape pie, or a basis for whips, roly-polys, frozen desserts or a sauce for serving on branmange or other light desserts.

Then there's always the old stand-by; grape jam, then which no home-maker has discovered a better way to preserve luscious Canadian grapes, unless it be grape jelly.

Apparently the dry summer did little to reduce Canada's grape crop and there should be plenty of grapes on the markets and store shelves this fall, reports the Department's home economists.

MAIL ORDERS MENACE SMALL TOWNS

Merchants in Alberta small towns increasingly are being challenged by a menace they do not know how to combat: inroads being made into their business by mail order houses.

Reasonably, local businessmen point out they pay taxes and salaries to their employees for support of the community. Mail order houses have no interest in the community except as a trading area, and contribute nothing of benefit, financially or otherwise, except the goods they sell.

Is there not some way, these merchants ask of making the mail order houses pay taxes to communities where they do business?

Well, from the little we know about it, the tax would be difficult to implement. At the moment we haven't time nor wit to think out a system.

But there is another way, probably just as difficult to make effective, and that is to persuade local buyers to patronize local industry. Human nature being what it is, people will purchase where they can buy cheapest. But it does seem to us that the mail order houses do have an unfair advantage in competition, not only because they are large concerns and may merchandise cheaper through bulk buying and may take small returns on large volume, but also because they may extend their trading area to many localities without the expense of overhead nor taxes.

The Post Office probably can't do anything about it; the municipalities would have difficulty finding a feasible method of taxation; and the solution is probably with local customers themselves.

If this mail order business is to be followed through to the ultimate end, if no one buys from local merchants there will be no local merchants, no salaries—no town and nobody to buy even from the mail order houses.

For our own part, we would like to hammer home: "Buy from those local merchants who patronize your local newspaper." If we can't get that you-scratch-my-back-and-I'll-scratch-yours lesson over, we would settle for:

"Buy from your local merchant. In the long run it pays."

CUT DOWN THIS APPALLING WASTE

Controlled fire has been a benefactor of man. It has provided him with light and heat; by it he cooked his good. But fire can also be an enemy.

During the 10-year period ended December 31, 1948, there were 18,228 serious fires in the province of Alberta. These fires caused a loss which reached the staggering total of $19,927,648.

In those 10 years, 315 men, women and children died in Alberta as a result of fire.

This appalling situation is not improving, for in 1948 alone there were 2,285 fires which caused a property loss of over three and three-quarter millions of dollars, and brought death to 48 men, women and children . . . all in the province of Alberta.

In the words of E. R. Hughes, Alberta Fire Commissioner: "These figures should spur us on to make an all-out effort to reduce fire losses through proper care in handling fire. An analysis of the causes of fires and resulting loss of life over the past 20 months reveals that lighting stoves with gasoline or other petroleum products lead all the rest. This is followed by suffocation; people trapped in burning buildings; by children playing with matches; by the practice of leaving children alone in the home."

This is Fire Prevention Week. But every week of the year should be fire prevention inspired. Fires, like accidents, don't just happen, they are caused. It is estimated that 80 per cent are the result of carelessness.

While it is the fireman's business to put out fires, we all share responsibility in trying to eliminate conditions which cause them.

Everyone Has Something to Save For

A good many millions of words have been written in the past about the virtues of thrift and saving generally. Some of them have been extremely persuasive and occasionally the writer has developed his theme with a freshness and vigor calculated to fire the dullest imagination.

But there is another aspect to the question that is so obvious it may well be unappreciated if not overlooked entirely. It is the thought that civilization today would know practically none of the amenities it now takes for granted unless someone, somewhere had first saved some money.

Canada Savings Bonds are an outstanding example of what has been done to make it easier to save. This year a Fourth Series of these bonds is being offered to the public. To date, Canadians have made more than three million purchases of Canada Savings Bonds, representing a total value of more than a billion dollars. This year, as in the past, hundreds of thousands of us will again testify to their convenience and to the soundness of the investment they represent.

Dear Editor

Hutterites

Rockyford, Alta.

Dear Editor: I don't see what was wrong about Mr. Pue's Hutterite story. He didn't write anything that was not true. Why don't these people try to get more education? If they did they'd leave the colonies. This is Canada—1949, not Germany in the dark ages.

DISGUSTED.

Beiseker, Alta.

Dear Editor: The Hutterites are good living people and you shouldn't make a joke of them. They aren't educated but they don't do things like rolling weiners around on the streets like the students at the girls do, nor wear dance caps.

FAIR PLAY.

Edmonton.

Dear Editor: A solution to the problem of the high level bridge, that wouldn't cost nearly as much money, has occurred to me. I would like to use the columns of the Sun to put it across.

Instead of ripping up the lower deck and putting all the traffic on the top deck (spending thereby thousands on extended decks) why not keep the lower deck for south-bound traffic and the upper deck for northbound traffic?

The C.P.R. tracks could be re-laid on the east side of the top deck (where the southbound street car tracks now run) and that would leave the middle and west portions of the bridge.

Electric buses, of course, would use these roadways same as ordinary traffic.

This plan would undoubtedly cost a lot less than $5,000,000 and the east side of the structure could be reinforced with extra supports for weight of the trains.

NOT AN ENGINEER.

Editor's Note: Commissioner Menzies tells us the main reason is to obtain faster traffic. Two-lane highways are not nearly as effective as one 4-lane because the 4-lane allows the cars to pass slow traffic in the same direction.

EDITORACLES

From London, the Associated Press reports that police investigating two men who were acting strangely found that each was a night watchman who had become suspicious of one another and were actually keeping an eye on each other end of the alley on the other's actions. The parallel, and moral, as applied to the Western Nations and the Iron Curtain countries is too obvious to be emphasized.

Our own National Research Council has found that computations in connection with the atom have been in error; the U.S. has recently discovered that apparently the speed of light was out a foot in four miles. Now scientists are of the opinion that cosmic rays are not cosmic but originate in the sun. The changing world that the scientists were supposed to have tabbed!

Beethoven and Goethe were extravagant admirers of each other until they met (July, 1812, at Teplitz). While their reverence for each other's work did not decline, they did not get on well as persons. Would someone like to draw the moral?

Japan is calling for a meeting of President Truman and Premier Stalin to ease American differences. The atomic explosion in Russia has made the Japanese uncomfortable aware that in an atomic war they are very vulnerable. They also probably have too unpleasant memories of Hiroshima to wish any threat to peace at the moment. Quite a difference from the time when Japan thought she was the warlord of Asia.

A scientist at the Pasteur Institute, has developed a yeast serum. Just when we were beginning to pity our children for the kind of world they were going to grow up in, scientists talk about, not only prolonging our life, but making us like it. By the way, whatever happened to this monkey gland business?

More On Hutterites-- Less On Pop, Please!

Rockyford Alta.

Dear Boss: By this time you are probably tired of reading letters protesting against the views you expressed about the Hutterites. Personally, I thought your article tried to present a balanced opinion rather than be purely critical.

That those who know the Hutterites best should protest so vehemently speaks well of them as neighbors.

Since I've been in this vicinity I've heard a whole succession of stories about their kindness and good deeds.

During the depression they sent whole wagon loads of food, some of which later signed a petition that the Hutterites be prevented from buying land.

A farmer who was unable to work because of some hand, they did own a tire harvesting . . . These are some of the stories.

The Hutterite Exclusion Bill was sponsored by persons who possibly had good reasons of their own. To me it has always seemed a discriminatory bit of legislation, entirely inappropriate for a country which prides itself on love of freedom and tolerance. I have my doubts whether the courts would uphold it.

I know too little about the Hutterites to comment on them intelligently. But one thing I may say with certainty after listening to comments of others for the past few days, they are not without friends in their adopted country.

Our readers agree with us in particular, at any rate. In many localities we are not getting enough local news. Even local editors, who are falling down in this respect, would also agree. They complain that people in the community will not co-operate in providing them with news.

Oddest part of this situation is that those who complain the most invariably co-operate the least. Now when someone says the paper hasn't enough local news I ask if they have ever given news to the local editor.

That seems to put things in a different light. Why, I don't know. I sometimes wonder why they think news gets in a paper. Possibly in future we should only hire mind-readers as local editors?

One way to carve your own tombstone is to start chiselling in traffic—Galt Reporter.

No one erects a monument to the man who traffics in chiselling, either.

She needs it to tell hubby the price.

Anyone who knows when to stop talking couldn't be a bore.

"Few things are more dangerous to a person's character than having nothing to do and plenty of money to do it with."—Grit.

And nothing is safer to predict than that few of us will have the pleasure of tearing our character to pieces that way.

For that matter, nothing is more exasperating than having plenty to do and no money to do it with.

"If you want to test your memory, try to remember the things you worried about yesterday." —Pachyderm.

And if you want to worry, try to remember the things you forgot to do yesterday.

Some people who obtained education by degrees miss being intelligent by miles.

Civil servants could put up a powerful argument for a raise: they could claim their income tax is too small.

An Alaskan law prohibits giving whiskey to a moose. What about an elk?

In many cases persons hesitate to provide news for fear someone may think they are publicity-seekers. Nothing could be further from the thoughts of those most intimately connected with the newspaper, not so much because those persons are more newsworthy as the fact the correspondence without realizing it—moves in the same small circle or depends on certain persons only for news.

Wish there was some easy way of persuading people that by providing news they make it more interesting for readers, and so help not only the newspaper but also subscribers and advertisers.

Some day soon I should like to write a blast on "peace-time profiteers." I'm getting tired of paying five, six, seven or ten cents for soft drinks, and never knowing which it is going to be.

When the tax came off soft drinks I thought the nuisance of paying seven cents for a commodity which would disappear. Maybe the store-keeper can see some justification for charging extra for a commodity which is supposed to be a standard price. I can't.

A restaurant could claim that it is charging more for coffee because its coffee is better than "peace-time profiteers." I'm getting tired of paying five, six, seven or ten cents, instead of including the drink in the price of the meal, seem to me a minor racket. If the average person is like myself, he never really knows how much a meal is costing him (in spite of the price on the menu) until he gets the bill.

Public indignation could easily be brought about by war profiteers. Peace profiteers are preying on the same human gullibility. They know the people have the money and will not protest too much.

"Charge everything the traffic will bear" may be sound business practice when times are good. As a customer it makes me see red. I would start a boycott of any establishment charging more than five cents for drinks if I thought it would do any good.

Which it probably won't. If by fortunate fate someone reads this and feels the same way I do, I would welcome some moral support in my one-man campaign for the "five cent price."

Better still, some practical ideas of what to do about it.

Sincerely,
Your Editor.

Berlin youngsters are delighting in an atom bomb game. Toy soldiers, miniature tanks, even toy rocket bases are making an appearance in West German toy shops to such an extent that educational authorities are demanding a law banning manufacture and distribution of militaristic toys. It seems such a long way from the cowboys and Indians of our youth!

Lack of Support Kills Weeklies

A weekly newspaper is possible only when it secures sufficient advertising support to pay expenses, and perhaps a modest profit. Merchants who want their towns to have a weekly paper will give the publisher regular support.

Two Saskatchewan weekly newspapers ceased publication during August and a third gave advance notice that it will withdraw from the field at the end of the year. The Guernsey Standard and wrote "to its 40-year career on Aug 5; the Cabri Enterprise threw in the towel on Aug 24; and the Punchy Times was discontinued on Dec. 28, after publishing for four generations.

In making the announcements, all three publishers gave the same reason: inadequate advertising support, lack of experienced printers and high wages. And this has led other publishers to conclude that, unless they got more local advertising support, there is every possibility that more papers — particularly the smaller ones — will be forced to the wall.

MORBID INTEREST IN PARIS TRIALS

(Fourth Installment of the
"Strangest Murder Case on Record")

The first Paris trial opened at St. John on September 29, 1921, before Mr. Justice Barry.

It is an interesting sidelight that on the front page of the St. John Daily Telegraph of Sept. 29, there were three murder stories. The fact that the Paris trial had opened was only mentioned on a back page.

Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle's trial for the murder of Virginia Rappe (the charge later being reduced to manslaughter and of which he was acquitted) was of far greater interest. This was the case celebre of the decade and the evidence in the trial of the film comedian ran parallel with the Paris case in the newspapers of the Maritimes for some days.

"MORBID INTEREST"

The presiding judge remarked of the Paris case, however: "The proceedings in this session . . . are arousing more than the usual morbid interest." A murder trial was unusual in St. John but none suspected at this date how unusual this case would prove to be.

In reading the accounts of the trials over 28 years later it is difficult to see how so many people on one side or the other obviously must have been wrong.

It is easy to understand that people might become confused on certain points, even on essential points and it is also easy to understand how one or two persons might imagine they saw something they did not see; how a whole procession of people could take their oath that they had seen a man at a certain place at a certain time and just as many more swear that he was many miles away at the same time is puzzling.

CONFLICT OF EVIDENCE

The murder occurred on Aug. 2, 1917. Evidence pointed directly to that conclusion, and Crown and defence apparently accepted the fact as established. Crown witnesses swore that Paris was in St. John on Aug. 2 and 3, while defence witnesses just as positively swore that he was in Truro on both those days, a distance of 240 miles by rail, and at that time a 10 hour train journey at least.

Witnesses on both sides, in most cases, knew Paris for years. If Paris had a double—a remote possibility at the best and not seriously suggested by either side at any time—he certainly was uncanonically aware of Paris' affairs from the testimony of those who claimed to have talked with him at both places on the same date.

PARIS OFFENCE

The defence was that Paris could not have committed the murder because he was in Truro on the day, and two following days after the murder took place in St. John. Paris himself testified—he took the stand at all five trials—that he went to Truro from St. John on July 24, and did not return until Aug. 4.

Crown witnesses asserted that Paris was in St. John on Aug. 2 and Aug. 3. They placed the dates because there was a large fire on the night of Aug. 2, near where they and Paris lived. On the other hand the Truro people in more than one instance had documentary evidence of the date on which an event occurred at which Paris was present.

Signed Three-Year Contract with Toronto Maple Leafs

TIM HORTON

Termed as "the No. 1 defence prospect in Canada," rough and ready Tim Horton signed a three-year contract on Monday with Toronto Maple Leafs. The bashing rearguard of last season's St. Michael's College Majors, Toronto, will report to the Pittsburgh Hornets training camp in Welland, Ont., on Wednesday. Horton, who won't be 20 until next January, was born in Cochrane, Ont. He played hockey at public and high school in Cochrane and Sudbury, and with Sudbury and Copper Cliff in the N.O.H.A.

Beef By Air

Cattle droving over long distances is one of the main difficulties of the Australian livestock man. But a partial answer has been found in the northwestern part of Australia by taking to the air.

An abattoir has been erected on one of the livestock stations with a mobile killing plant and refrigeration facilities. Here the cattle are slaughtered and the chilled beef flown to the northern port of Wyndham about 190 miles distant.

The method eliminates many weeks of road travel with consequent loss of condition. It has already been demonstrated that about 20 per cent more meat can be delivered in this manner, all of which is of first-class quality. These advantages, it is claimed, more than compensate for the increased cost of air freight, without increasing the price to the consumer.

The plan has met with much initial success that its extension to other isolated cattle raising areas of Australia is contemplated.

Hunters and fishermen are cautioned by Red Cross Water Safety Instructors to make sure they can remove waders for it is very difficult to swim with extra weight.

Chili Recipes From "Canada's Kitchen"

Cabinet ministers and office boys, stenographers and livestock experts, in fact all the civil servants who work in the majestic Confederation Building in Ottawa, have been meeting with tantalizing odors as they enter the Wellington Street structure these fall days. The aromas have been emanating from the immaculate little white room in the basement, dubbed "Canada's Kitchen," where home economists of the Consumer Section, Department of Agriculture, have been experimenting with new ways of making that favorite relish, chili sauce.

And the economists of the kitchen have come up with some ideas. Uncooked Chili is one. It is actually an uncooked pickle. Another one can be cooked either on top of the stove or in the oven, a feature that keeps it out of the way and requires stirring only towards the last hour of cooking.

The recipes, complete with ad-

An Old Flower

Chrysanthemums were probably first cultivated in China and introduced from there to Japan in the eighth century. It was not until the end of the seventeenth century that they seem to have been grown in Europe.

In 1690 six varieties were grown in Holland, but they appear to have been allowed to die out, for they were not heard of in Europe until about one hundred years later. In 1780 three varieties were introduced into France and one of these found its way to England.

During the next twenty years a number of varieties came to England direct from China and Japan, and in 1830 the first all-chrysanthemum flower show was held in that country. Varieties now available are numbered in the thousands and new ones are added to the list every year.

Good Things To Eat

The tastes of the early South-eastern homes and their hospitable way of entertaining have many pointers that might well be adapted to present day living. The herb garden which always had a mint garden in the corner, in a moist, semi-shaded spot, furnished fresh mint the entire summer and dried leaves for winter use. It's refreshing flavor and order added sparkle to many meals. A small garden plot or even a window box will furnish space to grow it.

MINTED PEAS

1-4 cup chopped mint
1 tablespoon chopped onion
2 cups peas (fresh, canned or frozen)
Salt to taste
4 tablespoons butter or fortified margarine.

Place the peas, mint, onions into a boiler. Add water to furnish steam Cover and cook until tender. If using frozen peas, follow directions on package adding the mint and onion to the water. When tender add butter or margarine. Serve while hot. Mushrooms added just before the peas are tender add to the flavor and appeal of the dish.

"Yes," said the lordly young man, "I write poetry."

The girl was impressed.

"How truly devastating!" she exclaimed. "Does your poetry yield any returns?"

"Yes," said the young man, sighing slightly. "It practically all returns."

Sangudo Youth Start "Pig Riding" Craze

SANGUDO.—As dippy as dunking doughnuts, or as silly as sawing live, finny fish, is the new idea of piggy-back rodeo. The appalling news of the emergence of this craze on an otherwise peaceful world scene (dominated only by atom bombs, mass airplane murders and the like) will undoubtedly set back the clock of history by 100 years.

It seems that someone recently told Sangudo youth about the noble impulses that motivated the life of President Abraham Lincoln. They heard that one day Abe was off to an important affair, dressed in his Sunday best, and while on his way noticed a neighbor's pig stuck in the mud. Abe nobly rescued the creature because he knew the family would starve to death without their pig.

Now, Leonard Lesberghe, Garry Wendt, Peter McKeen, Ken Peacock, and Reg Peacock have put the Abe Lincoln story into reverse. They aren't going to carry any pig—not those fellows. They are going to get the pigs to carry them. The owners of the pigs at the Hog Ranch have tried to voice their opinions, but you know what this rising generation is like. They tumble onto a big, fat, squealing pig and when the frightened creature bucks like a steer they rise alright—but not very far. They rise straight up but when they start coming down they find the pig isn't where it was when they started to rise and they land instead in the soft gooey mud.

They all looked like Abe Lincoln when they got back from their pig rodeo. Covered with mud. And the stories they had to tell didn't sound a bit like the one George Washington told about the cherry tree.
